1. Where the activities useful, easy to understand and implement?

Mostly yes, although I used modifications.

2. Did you find any difficulties or doubts during the implementation?

The group in which I implemented the project consists of children who have specific learning difficulties, there are several children with autism. A desert island in the group caused a "storm". There were a lot of emotions, children were arguing about which idea is better. Activities should be implemented within one workshop!

3. Have you observed changes in the dynamic of the class after the implementation?

Describe what type of changes.

After all, the project is too short for me to notice changes in class dynamics. This class needs a long process to show positive changes in class behavior.

4. How did your students react to the activities in general?

They responded very well to most, but there were a few students who didn't like working in groups. (They always complain regardless of the activity)

5. What suggestions would you give us to improve the manual?

Tips for individual exercises that I put in the pre test - class schedule.

6. Any other significant observations you would like to add.

The activities are great for social education and additional classes 😊
